

International feminist network launch

WHY?

We represent half of humanity. In all countries, we are victims of violence, our right to dispose of our body is being violated or challenged, we have no equal access to places of power and we are the majority of the poorest of the planet. For our rights to become the priority of all governments and international institutions, feminists must speak louder.

Something is missing: an international network that brings together all feminist activists, movements, organizations, and networks to share, exchange and support each other's struggles.

Connecting these networks, especially through new technologies and social networks, will strengthen all of our feminist struggles, those which we share and those in which we stand in solidarity.

Many feminist networks already exist today, including at the global level. On all continents, they are informing themselves, organizing and mobilizing. However these feminist networks are often restricted to a particular theme, to a region or even to one language.

FOR WHOM?

For everyone! This project aims to bring together all feminists around the world who are mobilizing for the emancipation of women. Whether you are an organization, a network, a foundation, or an individual, woman or man, we welcome you to participate in this project!

Feminist Network

Join us now !

How?

- #1  Identify feminist movements and feminists on a common web platform to make them visible (through an interactive world map)
- #2  Launch a joint communication campaign to prepare future international events
- #3  Build tools for joint mobilization to make women's rights a central issue for public policies
